Thanks, Gary. Catching up on emails, so disregard my earlier one about the schedule.

Scott,

There are still significant issues with the current version of the FS (dated march 2014), so I would prefer that it not be posted yet. I sent that to you so you would be able to prepare a submittal to the National Remedy Review Board with the latest information. On the schedule, the current estimate for the proposed plan is Sept 2014.

Thanks,

Importance: High

Hi Gary-

I am following up on my query about the revised timeline for the SJRWP. On my webpage, I have the following wording in regards to the FS and the proposed plan for clean up:

- Feasibility Study Report – This document is due from the potentially responsible parties to the EPA in December 2013. HARC review of this document to be completed in January 2014.
- EPA Proposed Plan for Clean Up of the Site – This document is due from the EPA in February 2014. HARC will review this document as soon as it is available. Please note that there will be a minimum 30-day formal public comment period on the EPA Proposed Plan.

I need to update it.

Can you tell me if the draft final interim FS that you sent to Jennifer Ronk and myself is the version that we can post on the website and on which HARC can write the technical review? Or do we wait for the final interim FS? We definitely do not want to jump the gun.

Can you update me on when the proposed plan for clean up will be made public? Ballpark is fine.

Thanks-
Scott
